110 cum laude

Thesis title

Study of systems based on silica for biomedical applications

Principal subjects/occupational skills covered

- Advanced and Applied Mathematics and Chemistry and Physics.
- Study of mechanical, physics and chemistry properties of several inorganic or organic materials (metals, plastic and polymer and glass)
- Study and synthesis of several nano materials: nano particles and nanostructures.
- Synthesis of several materials (like quantum dot, dendrimers and some types of phosphors).
- knowledge of main productive processes of common materials (metals, glass, plastic).
- Knowledge of main superficial treatments: sputtering, PVD e CVD.
- Study e knowledge of characterization techniques (Spectroscopic: of fluorescence, UV-Vis, IR; electron microscopy transmission or scansion, thermogravimetric analysis: TG, dTG and DSC; adsorption and desorption analysis; mechanical analysis: tensile and compressive test, ecc...; NMR, ICP-tof .)
